Communication & Conflict

Instructor Introduction
- Rev. Jim Otte, Texas District, LCMS
- 1980 Graduate of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis
- Messiah Lutheran Church, Plano, TX & Licensed Counseling Practice in Ft. Worth, TX
- Counselor/Coach for Pastoral Leadership Institute
- PALS Presenter/Trainer; C.A.R.E. Process, TX District

Slide 4

A. Why This Course?

1. People underestimate the positive power of communication that “cherishes.” Stress & conflict evoke “un-cherishing” reactions.
2. “Where two or three are gathered…”
3. Goal: There is no “IT” we can’t work through!

Purposes:

1. “You are here!”
2. To assist in identifying a “grace-ful” path to repairing the conflict, healing the hurt, and restoring the relationship connection.
3. To assist in recognizing & developing healthy spiritual habits, which are clothed in grace (as opposed to ‘masked in self-righteousness’).

Core of the MAP: The ‘WE SERVE’ Heart

2 Corinthians 4:1. “Therefore, since through God’s mercy, we have this ministry, we do not lose heart.”

God’s Grace Creates/Sustains a WE SERVE Heart in His Children Through Word & Sacrament!

“WE” = Relationship! “SERVE” = Identity/Purpose

Slide 8

Core of the MAP: WE SERVE

“WE” – Relationship of Faith Created at Baptism Identity, Value = Foundation for “Cherished” Life!

Matthew 3:17

“You are My child whom I love. With you I AM well pleased.”
Service Traits of the WE SERVE Heart Reflect Christ-In-Us

“For we do not preach ourselves, but Jesus Christ as Lord, and ourselves as your servants for Jesus’ sake.”  2 Corinthians 4:5

Behavioral Habits & Personality Styles

Courage: “Dragon”

1. “Natural” leaders; Often act before they think!
2. Sacrifice others’ feelings in favor of completing tasks.
3. Often decisive; Very sure of being ‘right.’
4. Have difficulty masking or controlling anger.
5. Quick temper arousal; quick to move on; doesn’t understand why others’ haven’t.
6. Take charge in stressful situations; prone to “lecturing” if verbal; can be intimidating if in ME SURVIVE or WOUNDED Hearts.

Compassion: “Beaver”

1. Is drawn to cherishing people by caring for their physical, emotional, and spiritual needs.
2. Is energized by reaching out to lost, lonely, and needy people. Nesting instincts to rescue or keep the peace.
3. Will sacrifice own needs in favor of others’ needs.
4. Great capacity for empathy, but can take on too many hurts of others.
5. Genuinely care; will “give the shirt off their backs.”
Behavioral Habits & Personality Styles

Humility: “Turtle”

1. Appear more on the ‘introverted’ side of the trait scale.
2. Happiest working ‘behind the scenes;’ can be exhausted from being “on.”
3. “Think” before they act; can never get around to action; deliberate.
4. If prodded too much, can become “snapping turtles.”
5. High sensitivity to atmospheric stress; will retreat into shells until things have calmed down.

Relationship Goal of WE SERVE Heart

1. “Love one another as I have love you.” John 13:34
2. Substitute “cherish” for “love.”
   • “Chosen” (people)
   • “Called” (by name)
   • “Set Affection on” “Make His Face Shine Upon You”
   • Feeds “Faith, Hope, and Love”
   • Grace “Covering” for Doubt, Despair, and Hurt.
3. Emotional Outcome: Joyful Security/”Treasured”

What am I doing, which helps you feel cherished, and I can do more of?
What am I doing which triggers your feeling un-cherished, which I can do less of?
When there is something you do, which frustrates me, how would you like for me to bring it to your attention?

“When you know you’re cherished, you’ll walk through fire for someone!”

Discussion Break: 360° Cherishing

Using the “Cherish Targets” handout, discuss the questions offered for each target ring.

1. Ask your spouse (or significant other).
2. Ask your PALS group members.

On page 2 of the “Cherish Targets” handout are the people in your life to consider including in your “Cherish Targets.”

“ITs” Stress the WE SERVE Heart: Communication & Conflict on Edge

Know Your Red Zone “ITs”

1. Any situation triggering anxious feelings of ‘loss of control,’ ‘fish out of water,’ inadequacy, ‘in over your head,’ or out of your comfort zone.
2. Any situation involving a misunderstanding of intent, expectations, or manner in which it is handled.
3. “SITs” – Mostly solvable; limited in scope; little or no bad history (J. Gottman).
“ITs” Stress the WE SERVE Heart

‘Loss of Control’ Triggers Autopilot Instinct to React for the Purpose of Regaining Control

- Dragon/Fight: Added anger/intensity with sense of urgency.
- Beaver/Fix: Testosterone + Adrenaline = High Arousal.
- Turtle/Flee: ‘Fight’ Instinct: intimidating; asserting self without listening; assessing blame; criticizing; looking for “whose fault,” hurt feelings expressed as anger-out.
- IT: Black/White instinct in conflict: Who’s “Right/Wrong,” “Faithful/Unfaithful,” “Win/Lose.”
- IT: More likely to tell people what to do before listening.
ME SURVIVE!

Beavers on Autopilot: Compassion → Fix/Rescue
1. “Fix” instinct to listen for the “IT,” problem-solve IT, and move on. Fix often misunderstood as being “demeaning.”
2. Heightened sensitivity “radar” for others’ needs or discomfort – relieving others’ stress is de-stressing for them!
3. Can stunt the maturing process in dependents if rescue too often, i.e. reduce incentive to learn problem-solving.
4. High work-stamina: can burnout; prone to resenting others for not helping; fall in the “20%” doing the “80%.”
5. Tends to over-function; takes on emotional hurts of others.

Turtles on Autopilot: Humility → Flee/Avoidance
1. “Flee” instinct to wait before acting; create space in order to de-stress and think choices through.
2. Prone to avoiding or expediting the process of dealing with “ITs.” This can trigger abandonment feelings in Dragons and Beavers!
3. Take a ‘back seat’ in stressful situations; makes self invisible; likely to function in the ‘silent majority.’
4. May seek to placate in order to keep the peace.
5. Often ‘stonewall,’ beat around the bush, or give vague answers to direct questioning.
Slide 23

Discussion Break

Describe situations, which have triggered your RED ZONE stress reactions:

1. Which “autopilot” reactions you gravitate toward.
2. The ways in which your reactivity collides or colludes with others’ reactions.
3. Situations in which RED ZONE “ITs” have made their way into your ministry settings.

“GRACE HEALS”

Repair the “IT!” Restore the Heart!

1. Assess your own emotional intensity level:
   1------------------------5------6------7---8---9---10

2. Goal: Lower your own emotional intensity BEFORE you talk, listen, interpret, intervene, or engage in the repair process. Lower emotional intensity = 5 or below!

3. Commit to the Repair the “IT” Process:
   a. Part One: Heal the Hurt
   b. Part Two: Problem-Solve the “IT.”

Segment 4: “GRACE HEALS” – Heal the Hurt

Steps for Part One: Heal the Hurt

Step One: Prepare for the “IT” Conversation

a. Describe the “IT” (using the “IT” Card)

b. Describe the IMPACT the “IT” has had on you, including how you feel, what you think, etc. Limit your IMPACT statements to the effect on you – not others!

c. Prepare your heart for the work ahead, reminding yourself of God’s gift of healing grace for you in Jesus Christ.

d. Deeply breathe to lower your emotional intensity.
Slide 35

“GRACE HEALS”

Heal the Hurt

Step Two: Signal Your Desire to Have the Conversation
a. Exercise mutual cherishing by acknowledging your readiness to address the “IT.”
b. Affirm the other person’s timetable, priorities, etc., as equally important as yours.

“I’d like to talk “IT” through, if you’re ready to do that.”
“The misunderstanding we had earlier has been on my mind. How would it work for you, if we talk about “IT?”

Slide 36

“GRACE HEALS”

Heal the Hurt

Step Three: Acknowledge Your Own Good Heart (Intent)
a. Signal your intent is NOT to hurt the other person more.
b. This process can sting, because you are engaging in giving the other person feedback about an “IT.”

“I’m not trying to hurt your feelings.”
Heal the Hurt

Step Four: Acknowledge the Other Person’s Good Heart (Gracefully Give the Benefit of Doubt)

a. This step keeps you in an emotionally, calmer state.
b. This also reduces the likelihood of defensiveness on the part of the other person.
c. People often defend their “ITs” on the basis of their “Heart,” even when they know the IMPACT was hurtful!

“I know you meant well.”
“I think you’re a good __________ (fill in with a role).”

Step Five: Transition to Giving Feedback

“I just want to let you know how this impacted me...”

“I needed to let you know how what you did/said affected me...”
Heal the Hurt

Step Six: Describe the Other Person’s Impact (30 seconds at a time)

a. You can say a lot in 30 seconds!

b. 30 seconds keeps you talking about one “IT” without jumping to other “ITs.”

c. 30 seconds makes it easier on the listener.

d. 30 seconds keeps you more emotionally calm while you speak, even if talking about upsetting “ITs.”

Heal the Hurt

Step Six (Continued): Describe the IMPACT on You

“When you...(did what you did), this is how “IT” affected me…”

“IT” felt to me like (use a metaphor or word picture)…”

a. After speaking for 30-45 seconds, STOP and ask:

“Is what I’m saying making sense?”

b. This gives the Listener a chance to catch up and respond.
Heal the Hurt

Step Six (Continued): Describe the IMPACT

c. The Listener responds with “Yes,” or “No.”

d. The Listener paraphrases in own words what he/she heard was said. This indicates whether the Listener is tracking. Listening is a powerful way to “Cherish!”

e. The Listener asks, “Did I get it? Is there more you want to say?” Genuinely inviting more feedback multiplies good feelings of being “Cherished.”

f. Primary Goal of Step Six: Mutual Understanding of the Each Person’s View of the “IT.” Remember: Understanding does not equal Agreement!

g. When the Speaker feels his/her perspective on the “IT” is more understood, he/she invites the other person to share the other point of view. The roles are reversed.

“I’d like to hear your perspective on this situation...”
Heal the Hurt

Step Seven: Determine if Any Hurt was Caused by the “IT” or by How the “IT” was Handled by Either Person.

a. It does not matter if the INTENT was NOT to hurt! Hurt is hurt; it cannot be ignored. Hurt must be repaired!

b. If Hurt is/was felt, proceed to Steps Eight & Nine.

c. If hurt is/was not caused, skip Step Eight & Nine, and move to Part Two: Problem-Solving the “IT.”

Heal the Hurt

Step Eight: Listeners – Genuinely Repent of the Hurt You Caused (Even if You Didn’t Mean to!) and Ask for Forgiveness

a. Offer no explanations, excuses, “Buts,” disclaimers, or proclamations of your own goodness or reasons.

“Thanks for telling me how you felt. I feel really bad for hurting you. Will you forgive me (or work toward forgiving me?)”

“After talking this through, I realize how much I over-reacted. In doing that, I really hurt you. Will you forgive me?”
Heal the Hurt

Step Nine: Speakers – Genuinely Offer Words of Forgiveness or a Promise to Work Toward Forgiving the Hurt

a. Some “ITs” take longer to forgive.
b. Remember: The ‘forgiver’ bears some of the hurt, even though he/she forgives.
c. Let the hurt go and graciously give it to Jesus.
d. Christians are compelled to forgive, in response to God’s gift of forgiveness through Christ. Forgiveness is the ultimate act of “Cherishing.”

“I forgive you.”

Discussion Break: Grace Heals

Discuss Steps 1-9 of “Heal the Hurt.”

1. In what ways might this approach be used in family settings with children or extended family?
2. How might this approach work in congregational conflict?
3. What obstacles do you see in implementing an approach such as this?
Segment 5: “GRACE HEALS” – Problem-Solve the “IT”

Part Two: Problem-Solve the “IT”

Step One: Restate the “IT” As Likely to Repeat Itself
a. Solvable “ITs” may happen again.
b. “Perpetual” (J. Gottman) “ITs” will always happen again and with great frequency!
c. Forgiveness does not fully repair the “IT.” Unwillingness to forgive is usually a trust issue, not a hurt issue!

“If this situation was to happen again, let’s figure out how we can handle it better.”

Step Two: Brainstorm Ways to Address the “IT”

a. Get creative!
b. Throw ideas out on the table.
c. Cherish each other by taking turns, listening, and treating each other’s ideas with equal regard.
d. Use “cherishing” language:

“How would it work for you, if we tried this...?”
“Let’s try this idea... How does that sit with you?”
e. Differentiate your “negotiables” from your “non-negotiables.”
Slide 49

"GRACE HEALS"

Know the Difference: Where Can You Compromise?

- Negotiables
- Non-Negotiables

Slide 50

"GRACE HEALS"

Problem-Solve the “IT”

Step Three: Settle on an Agreed Upon “Plan-on-Paper” (POP) & Shoot Holes in It.

- a. Plans-on-Paper haven’t yet been exposed to reality.
- b. Find the “holes” and plug them PRIOR to implementing the POP to reduce likelihood of failure.
- c. Don’t allow this Step to trigger a WOUNDED ME reaction! Take a break if you trigger an “IT.”
- d. Wounded Dragons, Turtles, and Beavers don’t function well in this Step.
Problem-Solve the “IT”

Step Four: Finalize the POP with Written Agreement of Each Person’s Responsibilities & a “Tweak” Date

a. Written agreements clarify how each person will contribute to a better resolution of the “IT.”

b. Each person commits to doing his/her part until the “tweak” date.

c. No unilateral changes in the agreements, without consulting with the other person(s). This is critical to maintaining high trust in the relationship. Betrayal of this item results in a WOUNDED ME Heart!

d. Set the “tweak” date and program it into your calendar, but regularly check in with each other on how the POP is working.

e. Skipping the “tweak” meeting will create a new “IT,” by causing more hurt and lowering trust. Keeping the “tweak” commitments is a powerful way to “cherish.”

f. If the “IT” is Perpetual, be prepared to address “IT” frequently.
“GRACE HEALS”

Problem-Solve the “IT”

Step Five: Thank Each Other for the Commitment & the Effort

- Regularly recall and compliment each other on working together as a team.
- Think of each other as “cherished” by God & “cherished” by the other.
- Tell other people about your joy in being “cherished” this way.

Step Six: Get Ready for the Next “IT!!!”

Discussion Break: “GRACE HEALS”

Discuss Steps 1-5 of “Problem-Solve the ‘IT’”

1. What situations have you encountered, where it was relatively easy to ‘forgive,’ but difficult to ‘trust?’ In what ways may Steps 1-5 address that?
2. How aware are you of the “Negotiables” vs. “Non-Negotiables” you operate by in your life? Are they in sync with other people in your ministry settings?
3. Most people fail to include a “tweak date” in their POP implementation. Suggest some effective ways to include it and remember it!
“GRACE HEALS”

Summary

1. God’s grace, through Christ, saves us eternally and empowers us temporally.
2. God initiates cherishing action toward us, so we can initiate cherishing of each other.
3. Cherishing heals!
4. Not cherishing wounds.
5. “ITs” are a part of life.
6. Families and congregations (even synods) can commit to working through their “ITs” in cherishing ways!
