Disaster response survival kit

The disaster response survival kit project engages LCMS congregations and districts in an outreach ministry to provide at-risk members with a survival kit as part of a disaster preparedness plan. The project calls for survival kits to be assembled and distributed locally to members and/or nationally to communities.

Although it is wise for everyone to maintain a basic survival kit, it is helpful for the church to assist those who may be homebound or otherwise unable to provide for themselves.

As part of the project, each congregation or affiliate organization fills the empty survival kits with items from a suggested list provided by LCMS Disaster Response (see below). The items are purchased and donated by the members of the congregation or affiliate organization. Additional survival kits assembled over and above local needs may be stored by the church and shipped to other areas following major disasters.

The cost of items to fill the bags starts at $10 and goes higher depending on the quality and quantity of items purchased. The cost will increase substantially if the optional items are added. Stores that specialize in survival gear or high-end sporting goods stores tend to be more expensive and generally don't carry items in bulk.

Items purchased at discount stores tend to reduce the overall cost of each kit. Buying multi-pack items, like six waters, six tissues, six food bars, etc., will reduce the cost as well. It is possible to assemble each survival kit for less than $10, plus the cost of the bag.

Flood relief project

The LCMS Disaster Response flood relief project engages LCMS congregations, districts and other groups in an outreach ministry to provide pre-assembled flood relief buckets to flood and hurricane survivors as part of a disaster preparedness plan.

The project calls for flood relief buckets to be assembled by LCMS congregations, districts and groups and then shipped across the United States for easy distribution following a disaster. Local congregations in the disaster-affected areas serve as the key distribution point in their communities with a special focus on those who may be homebound or otherwise unable to provide for themselves.
